Renting a villa has always been a good idea, but it is now more than ever: You only have to interact with the friends and family you've chosen for your vacation bubble. With these villas, there's space to connect with loved ones inside; some spectacular, wide-open nature outside; and often a wellness element baked in. While it's still too early for many of us to travel, it's not too early to dream. Keep these in mind for when you can venture out of town.

Euphoria Retreat, Greece

With Greece one of the first countries to have announced plans to welcome tourists, this luxury destination spa has launched new Sanctuary Stays with three customizable options. There's the 1830 Leoncini Mansion, whose original wood beams and stone walls blend into the landscape at the base of Mt. Taygetus and its ancient forest on the Peloponnesian peninsula. Its six bedrooms can be booked for exclusive use, including spa time for the family or small group. Then there's a 72-foot Pershing yacht for groups who want to get away from it all at sea. And larger groups can buy out the full 45 rooms.
