NEW

There are obscure Greek words, and then there's Euphoria. It's a sky-high promise for a new luxury spa resort, but at the very least it leaves you in no doubt as to the emotional state that it intends to induce in its guests. And it's not just talk. Euphoria Retreat is more than a luxury hotel: it's a full-spectrum holistic wellness resort, one where physical comfort and the serenity of a sublime landscape combine with spa treatments, healthful cuisine, and a host of interventions drawn from Western and alternative medicine to produce a restorative experience that goes beyond the typical resort stay.

Even the architecture is transformative: the materials are familiar but the forms are inventive, especially in the spa, which spans four levels and is dominated by a spiral staircase and a mazelike warren of an indoor-outdoor pool. Euphoria's rooms and suites are no less impressive, a conscious blend of Zen minimalism and soothing organic textures. Even the humblest one spans some 25 square meters, and comes with the full complement of modern comforts. Add to all this a culinary approach that takes the already-healthy Mediterranean diet to new extremes by customizing dishes to guests' personal metabolic needs, and you're headed for euphoria indeed.

EUPHORIA RETREAT - A HOLISTIC WELLBEING DESTINATION SPA REVIEWS

What I liked:

Le calme, la gentillesse du personnel.

What the hotel could do better:

L'ambiance est décevante, on se croirait parfois dans un hôpital ou dans une secte dont l'église serait le spa.
